

Intern with the Edible Bus Stop

The Edible Bus Stop is a design led Landscape Architecture and Community Design social enterprise that uses food growing as a tool to connect people with one another & in turn where their food comes from.

There are two sides to our project, one element is the creation of public growing spaces, co-designed and run by each community, utilising existing transport networks to create green links and routes.

Alongside the community driven aspect, we create playful sculptural installations that fuse, fashion, art, architecture and food with horticulture and growing to engage a wider audience and hopefully inspire them to get involved and understand about food growing and horticulture. This in turn raises the profile of gardening through design.

The Edible Bus Stop is looking for talented Landscape Architects, Designers & Creatives to join the team to work on the current portfolio of projects including public realm projects in London & Southend, a sculptural piece for the Southbank Centre and a large mixed use development in the centre of Brixton with Carl Turner Architects.

Requirements

Candidates must have a minimum of 2-3 years study in the creative industry, with construction experience, horticultural knowledge and technical detailing skills.

Candidates should be highly motivated and enthusiastic with excellent communication, numeration and organisational skills; good spoken and written English is essential.

Candidates should have professional level competence in CAD, Creative Suite & 3D modelling skills.

The position will be on a part time / flexible basis initially, as an unpaid intern - with a view that this becomes a paid position as the projects develop.

To be considered, please send a brief CV, examples of your work in PDF format and a covering letter with reasons why you would like to join us to: info@theediblebusstop.org